The Causeway Coastal Route initiative emerged as a key element within the Causeway Signature Project. The Causeway Coastal Route is a Northern Ireland based project, incorporating many of the regions along the coast of Antrim and Down. The route has been identified as a key tourism asset and offers a range of activities, from hiking to cycling to scenic drives. It is considered a world-class tourist destination.

The Causeway Coastal Route is a linear route that follows the coastline of Northern Ireland, linking major tourist destinations such as the Giants Causeway, Dunluce Castle, and the Gobbins Path. It is managed by the Causeway Coastal Route Trust, a partnership of local authorities and community groups.

The Trust has developed a comprehensive website to promote the route, featuring information on attractions, accommodation, and events. The website also includes interactive maps and virtual tours to help visitors plan their journey.

The Causeway Coastal Route has been recognized as a UNESCO World Heritage Site and is part of the European Union's Transnational Park Network, which includes parks across Europe with similar aims and objectives. The site is managed by the Park's Management Board, which is responsible for overseeing the implementation of the site's management plan.

The site is also home to a number of important geological formations, such as the Giant's Causeway and Antrim Coast, which are protected under the United Nations World Heritage Site designation. The site is managed by the Heritage Council of Northern Ireland, which is responsible for overseeing the implementation of the site's management plan and ensuring that the site is protected for future generations.
The Minister’s Decision

On Tuesday 21 February 2012, the decision by the Minister to approve the application to develop a golf course at Bushmills Lodge was made public. This development has been the subject of much debate within the community and beyond. The Minister’s decision was based on the need to balance the protection of the natural environment with the potential for economic growth.

The Minister’s decision was made after careful consideration of the application and the information provided. He considered the environmental impact of the development, the potential for economic growth, and the importance of protecting the natural environment.
